

Curious About Your Heart Rhythm Meds?

Medications for Atrial Fibrillation & Flutter

This video education series provided by Island Health reviews common medications used to manage stroke prevention, rate control and rhythm control for atrial arrhythmias such as atrial fibrillation (AF) & atrial flutter (AFL). Phone numbers provided within these videos are intended for patients with the Island Health AF Clinic. Patients from other services or other health authorities are advised to contact their own prescribers/clinicians for assistance

In response to common patient concerns, our team of experts has developed a series of educational videos to help you better understand the medications used to manage rhythm control for atrial arrhythmias, such as atrial fibrillation and atrial flutter. These videos provide guidance on how these medications can be safely started and monitored within the community.

Designed to complement the information from your community pharmacy, these videos help clarify key details from your drug handout and deepen your understanding of your treatment. Be sure to watch them after receiving your medication and reading the drug handout to ensure you feel confident about your care.
